"My clients said they were very happy with your services and spoke very highly. Sometimes folks don't understand that to get high quality service may cost a little, but not having the service can cost way more. Sounds cliché but it is a real matter."

Attorney, Allen M

"When my father was dying, Rebecca handled his massive insurance problems, allowing me to be present with him and my mother in his last days. Not having to be on the phone was a godsend to me."

Daughter, Nancy A

"I am the out-of-state guardian of a loved one. Rebecca provides professional and caring services and is my local eyes and ears, giving him attention and access to services to improve his quality of life. I recommend The Aging Space to anyone who is looking for guidance and expertise in caring for their loved ones."

Rebecca Wild-Wesley
RN, BSN, MA, CMC

Rebecca is the founder of The Aging Space, a professional geriatric care management practice. When aging is complicated, Rebecca provides consultation for older adults, adults with disability and their families. After 35+ years as a registered nurse focusing on medical diagnoses in home health care and insurance, she now helps aging families to holistically (all-inclusively) plan for their future. She is an expert in the field of aging with a master's degree in gerontology and certification in care management. Her client is always the elder. She is an advocate for the client and navigates within complex health care systems, and both public and private social services. Her best referrers are her satisfied clients and families.

Certified Geriatric Care Managers meet strict certification requirements and follow NAPGCM's Standards of Practice and Pledge of Ethics

The Aging Space - Where Caring Meets Planning - (888) 607-6027

Why call The Aging Space? To reduce stress and worry - to restore peace of mind

You call because your aging family member's lifestyle is no longer working and none of you know the right questions to ask and how to solve the problems. Adult children call when their parents' health conditions, memory problems, or who live far away make them worry. Aging adults, especially someone who is alone, call us because they are worried about losing independence, dignity, friends and their connections in the community.

What we provide

We provide a problem-solver and a researcher with extensive local networks and life experience. We assess, advocate, advise and oversee all aspects of the aging adult's life – with an eye towards improving it. We bring an understanding of the physical, emotional and mental complexities of aging and we help to solve problems to achieve the client's maximal functional potential. We are paid privately, often by the adult children of the client. One son said: "The cost of the problem was far more expensive and consequential than the cost of the solution."

When to call The Aging Space?

Call us when you notice that your aging family member's lifestyle is compromised. These changes can be gradual over time or dramatic such as:

- Having problems with medications
- Frequent falls or bruising
- Changes in appetite, weight loss, spoiled or no food in refrigerator
- Getting lost while walking or driving
- Memory, mood or judgment changes

Who would call The Aging Space?

Family members, aging adults, doctors, lawyers, trust officers, guardians, counselors, and others.

What happens when you call The Aging Space?
