

What is a Family Coronavirus Plan?

“Should I bring my mother home from assisted living?”

“Is it safe for dad to still have his caregivers coming into the house?”

“How will we care for mom and dad if they get sick?”

A Family Coronavirus Plan gives you the opportunity to talk with a local expert in eldercare and aging well to ask specific questions and create an action plan tailored to your family’s unique situation.

Founded in [####], [Your Company] is intimate with the special needs and pressures of older adults and their families. We also have strong connections and experience with the local eldercare providers so we can advise about best strategies given your family resources and priorities.

Here is how the planning session works:

- 15-minute free, get-acquainted call
- You send pertinent information for our care managers to review ahead of time
- 90-minute phone call with up to two stations (phone numbers) participating
 - Address your top three concerns
 - Discuss safety issues in your loved one’s current situation
 - Strategize about possible scenarios and wisest options (as much as we can cover in the time allotted)
 - What if they become sick?
 - What if people around them become sick (spouse, caregivers, residents)?
 - What if they need to go to the hospital?
- Written summary of the call
- Access to our Coronavirus Resource page with handouts and links to guide you
